STUDIO SOLIPSIS

Studio Solipsis is a workspace, a playground, a space where creative people meet and things happen.

It is an independent venue in Rabat, close to the old city of Mdina, away from Malta's political centre.

It is a small friendly business run by Glen Calleja and Giola Cassar in a spirit of collaboration. Glen makes handmade books and develops and manages artistic projects while Giola continues her photography practice from the in-house studio.

Our guiding principles.

We work together.

We think taste is a well placed detail in a photograph or a book.

We value subtlety over loud statements.

We want to keep learning.

We make imperfect things, decisions...that's ok.

We'd like to be excellent at what we do.

We offer coffee and biscuits if you visit.

We're happily at the fringe.

Working with us

There's always someone visiting at our studio. Sometimes it is just a friend passing by to say hello. On other occasions, fellow artists who need a space to work in, ambitious interns curious to learn about how we do things, collectors meeting curators... Sometimes it is an exhibition, a talk or a workshop; the traffic is continuous. The discussions and exchanges are continuous. This is how we like it.

Studio Solipsis has its own programme of events and workshops but it is always open to new proposals and collaborations. The venue is not for rent but arrangements for the use of facilities can be made.
